For the Alexandria Advertiser.

Mr. Snowden,

HAVING observed in your paper of the 19th inst. an anonymous letter which I supposed to have been written by Col. Frank or one of his agents, in behalf of T. W. Peyton—therefore in justice to my own feelings and a duty I owe my fellow citizens I have thought proper to subjoin to this communication my affidavit:—

District of Columbia, County of Alexandria, J.

Personally appeared before me, A. Faw, one of the Justices of the Peace, for said county, Richard P. Richardson, who having affirmed, depose and saith, that all the matter contained in his statement of the transactions between himself and T. W. Peyton, as published in Mr. Snowden's paper of the 16th instant, is the truth to the best of his knowledge.

Given under my hand this 22d day of August, 1803.

A. FAW.

My brother William, who is now out of town, will, in a few days, furnish his affidavit on the subject—then let the public judge how I have been treated by that hopeful young man. Col. Frank, with all your cunning, I defy you to injure my reputation—it is not of the same texture of yours: truth is on my side, that all powerful weapon, who can withstand its mighty power; like gold, the more it is handled the more effulgent and bright it appears. As a further proof of my disposition to have my business settled with Peyton, or by any of his agents I subjoin a copy of the following note.

Alexandria, Aug. 20, 1803.

Mr. Richard P. Richardson, DEAR SIR,

Agreeable to your request I furnish you with a certificate of what passed in your counting room, and it is as follows: to the best of my knowledge, viz.—A few days ago, I was present with Mr. W. Jones and the Messrs. Richardsons, in their counting room, where Mr. Jones presented Mr. R. Richardson with an instrument of writing, relative to Mr. Richardson and T. W. Peyton. After Mr. R. had read it, he handed it to me, I slightly looked over it, and perfectly understanding its contents, I put the following question to Mr. Jones—Do you appear here in your official character or as a mediator? Mr. Jones candidly answered in his official character; I then observed to Mr. Richardson, if he had a mind to sign his death warrant, to sign that paper. Mr. Richardson observed he would sooner lose his right arm—I observed it is impossible you can sign it, if you entertain the sentiments you have expressed of T. W. Peyton. Mr. R. said he did most sincerely. I then turned to Mr. Jones and observed to him, that I would be answerable Mr. Richardson would leave the settlement of the whole business to himself, provided he would act as a mediator and not in his official character. Mr. Richardson observed, he would with pleasure as he had confidence in Mr. Jones's honour. Mr. Jones observed he was not authorised to enter into the business in that way; but he would see (I believe) C. P. Thompson, and if agreeable, Mr. Richardson might expect to see him in the course of the evening. If he did not come that evening Mr. Richardson might consider the proposition as void—I went to Mr. Richardson's the next morning and asked him if Mr. Jones had called on him in the course of the evening; Mr. Richardson informed me he had not, and supposed the Colonel would not agree to it. This, sir, is the substance of what passed, and, as you intend it for publication I have been particular.

Your obt. servt.

RICHARD LEWIS.

I cannot help making mention of an occurrence that took place between Col. Frank and myself, on the Monday subsequent to T. W. Peyton's departure from this place. The Colonel or C. P. Thompson called me over to the warehouse of Davy Davy; after entering warmly into the difference between his brother West and myself, he had the consummate impudence to tell me that if I gave him any more of my impertinent language he would horsewhip me; I jumped from my chair and addressed him—you horsewhip your betters; I will give you 50 dols. to strike me or attempt to horsewhip me—the courageous Col. said his hands were tied in the district. I observed he should not have that as an excuse, that I would go with him from one to ten miles out of the district, to which he replied, he wanted nothing to do with me. The Colonel's courage reminds me of the story of a soldier who went to a tailor to get a vest and pair of pantaloons made, requested at the same time the tailor would put a breast plate in his vest—the tailor, doubting his courage, fixed it to his pantaloons; the next day, being hurried into battle with his new clothes on, he found the benefit of the tailor's judgment; the army being defeated, he had several probes behind without effect; the soldier after getting into safety acknowledged the tailor knew where his heart laid better than he did himself—so the Colonel has found I know where his heart lays as well as himself. Adieu my courageous Colonel—should you, or any of your agents, make a reply to this, I shall treat it with that contempt it deserves.

R. P. RICHARDSON.

Alex. Aug. 22, 1803.

Mr. Thomas West Peyton,

SIR,

IN your letter of the 30th of July, addressed to Mr. Richard Richardson, you attempt, a second time, to slander my reputation. I thought, Sir, ere this time, you were perfectly acquainted with the old adage, that "a burnt child dreads the fire;" or have you forgot, that you or Col. Frank will have to pay me, ere long, near six hundred dollars damages, being the amount allowed me, by a respectable and well informed jury for that infamous libel you fixed at my door; but, fiend like, you wish to level the reputation of all men with your own.

If, Sir, you had studied the works of a celebrated author, with as much precision as you appear (from your nefarious libel against me) to have studied the Newgate Calendar, you certainly would not have forgotten the following appropriate lines: "He that steals my purse, steals trash, 'tis something, nothing, 'twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands; but he that filches from me my good name robs me of that which no riches can replace, and makes me poor indeed." Now, Sir, if you cannot find out who it is that has robbed you of so ineffable a jewel, I will tell you how to find him—go to the records of Alexandria Court, there you will see Brooke against T. W. Peyton; also, have reference to your oath before the inquest who sat on the body of Thos. Dillon, and your oath a few months afterwards before the grand jury; also your oath before A. Faw, Esquire, and Phineas Jannet's affirmation on the same subject, before the same magistrate—besides innumerable other traits in your conduct, to particularize which would exceed the bounds of a letter. After your examination of the above references, I presume you will not be puzzled to find that it is yourself that has committed the robbery.

I conclude, Sir, in the language of Iago—"Not poppy nor mandragora, nor all the drossy furies of the world, will ever medicine thee to that sweet sleep which thou ow'st in thy juvenile days— which God, of his infinite mercy, grant for the sake of society."

Richard Brooke.

NEW YORK, August 20.

Peter Augustus Jay, Esq. who arrived at this port yesterday in the ship Oliver Elsworth from Rochelle, is said to be the bearer of dispatches for Government on the subject of the cession of Louisiana. Verbal accounts by this vessel state that Bonaparte had set out on his journey to the United Departments, and was at Boulogne on the first of July, where he examined the batteries, &c. and the preparations which were said to be making for a descent on England. The frigate La Consulate, with Gen. La Crosse on board, from Guadaloupe, had arrived at Rochelle, and had captured on her passage an English sloop of war of 20 guns.

We yesterday noticed, that the First Consul was on a visit to the sea port towns of France: and we should have stated, that Madam Bonaparte accompanied, or rather goes before His Consulship—She arrives at Dunkirk one day, and His Consulship the next—She is escorted by a regiment of chasseurs—and he by his Mamelukes, life guard, &c. &c.

NORFOLK, August 18.

By the brig Flora, Captain Davis, 20 days from Kingston, arrived in Hampton Roads yesterday, we learn that all American vessels bound to any part of St. Domingo, are sent to Jamaica without discrimination. General M'Gowan, together with a number of Officers, have been sent to England in the Santa Margareta frigate. A great number of American vessels have already arrived in Kingston, but none from this port.

We were yesterday politely handed the following important extract of a letter from a gentleman at Gibraltar, to his friend in this place, dated "Gibraltar, 2d July, 1803.

"The last mails bring accounts of the French flag being hoisted at Leghorn, Genoa, and most of the Italian ports; also, that Hanover, Hamburg, Cruxhaven, and most of the Netherlands, have fallen into the hands of the French, who threaten the King of Spain with immediate war, unless he opens all his gates and let them march into Portugal."

Alexandria Advertiser.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 23.

It is really curious to follow the French through a perusal of their various manifestoes, declarations, &c. &c. on the hostile appearance of England—because in the very midst of their gaudiness, we find, a mortified pride, struggling to conceal itself under the garb of innocence.

The senate of Paris asserts that "The French Consul will not suffer the English dominion in the Mediterranean."

This is a species of arrogance, which can be compared only to Canute the great, placing himself in a chair on the beach of the sea, and ordering the waves to recede at his command.

They then go on, and tell their Corsican ruler, that "his moderation has been so great, that it had need of being protected by his glory."

Here we see a man whose impetuosity carried him to such unwarrantable lengths under his own roof, and surrounded by his own guards, to the English ambassador, on discovering the check to his ambition, as to oblige him to withdraw, and decline all further interviews. A man whose chagrin betrayed him to the nobles of Europe, and, whose manifest vexation could be equalled only by that of a girl, whose playmate had destroyed the fabric of her baby-house.

But to proceed with these sapient senators; they add, "the Chief Consul considers it glorious, on this occasion, to be taken unawares."

If this is true, is it not strange, that a man should appear discontented with his glory?

Now, let us for a moment view the address of the tribunate, conveyed by citizen Trouve to the Chief Consul.

"The Government has shewn itself calm—it remained passive to provocation, because it was strong in its loyalty."

The calmness and passiveness of this most injured government, we have already touched upon, but, it yet needs a comment on its loyalty. This address being immediately to the person of the Chief Consul, we find it varnished with royal expressions. Loyalty is the incense offered to the crowned monarch, and is it defined by the ablest lexicographers.

Again, "Citizen Chief Consul, glory seemed for you to have exhausted all her gifts."

Louis the 14th never received greater adulation, or more fulsome panegyric. It seems, however, to be the food the Consul preys upon, as we find by his answer.

"We, answers the Consul, are forced to make a war to repel an unjust aggression. We will make it with glory."

Now we, Americans, say, that Monarchs always speak in the plural number, when speaking of themselves—as well we know from the various proclamations of George to us, during our struggle for liberty.

The Consul concludes his condescending answer in these words:

"Whatever circumstances may be, we shall always allow England to set the example in violent proceedings, contrary to the peace and independence of nations; and it will receive from us the example of moderation, which alone can maintain social order."

We, again we Americans, have heard of the moderation of the French from the procession of the Poisardes, with their King, a short time previous to conducting him to the scaffold, up to the publication of Col. Wilson's narrative of the Egyptian expedition of official command for ourselves.

Bonaparte's for him, is a fact by Cromwell.

Of this usurper Cromwell

Bonaparte's flying to the priests to pray for him, is a farce which was often acted by Cromwell.

Of this usurper Voltaire says—"Cromwell imparted his confidence to the Independents, who could not subfit but by him; yet, when with Deists, he would make a j-st of them; not that he favored the religion of Deism, which being entirely divested of fanaticism, can scarce suit any but philosophers—at any rate it will not suit a conqueror's turn.

The number of philosophers then was but small, and sometimes Cromwell diverted himself with them, in laughing at those enthusiasts who had paved his way to the throne by dint of Gospel. By this conduct he died in full possession of his authority, which had been cemented with blood, and supported by force and artifice."

FURTHER SUMMARY

Of News from the last London Papers.

The American Consul in London has given official notice, that no American or other neutral vessels are permitted to carry into any of the ports of the Republic of France, any merchandize of British manufacture, or British colonial produce, under the penalty of confiscation.

The French army, now in possession of Hanover, has levied large contributions on that devoted country.

The English appear almost unanimous in prosecuting the war with the utmost vigour—a circumstance which was not attended within the war against this country, or the last against the French.

Abundant rains in England give a prospect of a good harvest.

No steps had yet been taken in Spain towards entering into a war.

The Turks appeared to maintain a strict neutrality.

The French fleet were reported to be at sea, and the English in quest of them.

The Emperor of Russia has refused the offer of the Chief Consul of France, to make the Duke of Mecklenburg, the Emperor's brother-in-law, the elector of Hanover.

French troops have again entered the Papal and Neapolitan territories.

From Bremen, it is stated, that the French were in the neighbourhood of that City; that an embargo had been laid upon the English vessels, as an indemnity for the Bremen vessels which had been detained here, and that all Bills of Exchange from England, on Bremen and Hamburg, had been protested.

Letters from Constantinople, inserted in the French papers, as they have invariably done for some time past, give a most flourishing account of the state of French influence at the Porte. The purport of these accounts is obvious.

Leghorn has been declared in a state of siege by order of General Murat, and all the English there declared Prisoners of War upon their parole. Two English vessels in the port, richly laden, are stated to have fallen into the hands of the French.

A merchant in Liverpool writes to his correspondent in N. Y. under date of the 2d ult. that an act was prepared, and about to be submitted to parliament, to permit neutral vessels to carry foreign produce to England for home consumption on similar conditions as during the late war.

In Great Britain, American ships are subject to a duty of 2s. per ton if they go in and come out in ballast; 3s. per ton if they go in with cargoes and come out in ballast, and 4s. per ton, if they go in and come out with their cargoes.

Extracts of a letter from Gibraltar, dated the 18th June, 1803.

"Captain Escamiche (a native of this place in the Portuguese service) went off Algiers a few days ago in a 74, manned in Lisbon with about 800 volunteers and his four sons, to endeavor to retake the 44 gun frigate, captured last summer; close to said port he fell in with a 44 gun frigate, a brig and a zebec, when it fell calm, which gave an opportunity for boats coming to their assistance from Algiers, and towing them into port. The zebec he captured, took 100 and odd men out, and then sunk the vessel. He chased the others so close in as to exchange shot with the Mole batteries. He is now here on his way to Lisbon."

"On board the zebec, captured by capt. Escamiche, there were 12 Neapolitans, who they were carrying to slavery."

Great Britain appears to penetrate the passive policy of Prussia, and in blockading the Elbe has taken measures of the most vigorous and determined nature. It remains to be decided what part Prussia will take, and whether she will not feel herself so much inconvenienced by the measures of Britain as to require of the First Consul the curtailment of his extensive continental projects—and the evacuation of his present advantageous position on the banks of the Elbe.

There is little doubt but the neutrality of Prussia is purchased, and that the equanimity with which that nation has viewed the late progress of the French troops, is the consequence of private understanding.

England does not appear disposed to acquiesce in these arrangements.

The following is Lord Hawkesbury's letter to Baron Jacobi the Prussian Ambassador:

Copy of a letter from Lord Hawkesbury to Baron Jacobi.

The undersigned, his majesty's secretary of state for foreign affairs, has received his majesty's command to acquaint Baron Jacobi, that in consequence of the violation of the territory of the free imperial city of Hamburg, by the forcible occupation of the parts of the banks of the Elbe, by French troops, of the controul which those thereby possess over any vessels which may attempt to enter it from sea, or depart from it; and of the purposes of offence against his majesty's subjects to which they have applied, and are applying, the vessels that they have found in the ports of the Elbe.

His majesty has found it expedient to establish the most rigorous blockade at the entrance of that river: to maintain & enforce the same in the strictest manner according to the usages of war acknowledged and allowed in similar cases.—Baron Jacobi is therefore requested to ap-prize the Prussian consuls and merchants, residing in England, that the entrance of the above mentioned river, and must be considered as being in a state of blockade and that from this time, all the measures authorized by the laws of nations, and the respective treaties between his majesty and the different neutral nations, will be adopted and executed with respect to the vessels attempting to violate the said blockade after this notice.

As it is with the greatest reluctance the king has recourse to this measure, so his majesty will be ready to discontinue it, whenever the vessels of his subjects may be enabled to navigate with security the river above mentioned.

The undersigned, is therefore directed to declare, that whenever the French troops will evacuate the position which they occupy on parts of the bank of the Elbe, and will remove to such a distance from them, as to leave the course of that river perfectly free and secure to the vessels of his subjects, as well as of the other nations, his majesty will immediately withdraw his ships of war, which may be stationed at the mouth of the river Elbe, for the purpose of blockading the same.

The undersigned requests Baron Jacobi to accept the assurance of his high consideration.

(Signed)

HAWKESBURY.

Downing street, June 28, 1803.

Extract of a letter from Liverpool, dated July 2, to a respectable commercial house in Philadelphia.

"Times look extremely gloomy, the prices of articles quoted in our price currents, are merely nominal, for every thing is extremely dull of sale. Public credit has received a great shock, and money has not been so scarce since 1733.

The letter of Lord Hawkesbury to Baron Jacobi, announcing the blockade of the Elbe, has produced a very serious effect on the state of our markets.

The sons of the late Doctor Cullen of Edinburgh were distinguished by very extraordinary talents, accompanied, however, by the most eccentric turns of mind, and whimsical fancies. One of them, we are not sure whether it may not be the present Lord of Sessions, was when a small boy so singularly arch, and at the same time high mettled, that the Doctor could get little good of him. If the Doctor corrected him, he worried the Doctor in return. One day he committed some high offence, which the Doctor resolved to punish. A friend who was present interposed and said, "Do Doctor forgive him this time, by my faith he's a clever little fellow." "Yes, (re-echoed the boy archly) I am indeed father a clever little fellow." "Aye, aye, said the Doctor, then I'll see if I cannot take away a little of that cleverness from you." So he ordered him up into a garret room to be confined on bread and water. By some chance a cat was locked up in the room with him: so what does he do but he tears the sheets into strings, makes a long cord of it, and having fastened the cat to the end of it, stood with the window open prepared for what might happen. At his usual hour the Doctor returned from visiting his patients, got out of his sedan chair, his hat according to custom under his arm, and his enormous white, powdered wig, which would have covered a large bee-hive, exposed to view. Young Cullen immediately let down the cat, which catching hold of the Doctor's wig with his claws, held it fast. The Doctor greatly alarmed, looked up, and to his infinite chagrin and amazement, beheld wig and cat ascending into the air, and his son looking out and laughing. Ah, you rascal, exclaimed the Doctor, is this your doing? Yes, roared out the arch youngster (while the passers by stopped in surprise) yes, father, you threatened to deprive me of my cleverness, and I'll be hanged if I have not deprived you of all yours.

Under a Decree of the said Court,

We the Commissioners will expose to PUBLIC SALE, for ready money, on the premises, at 12 o'clock, on Friday the 30th day of September next,

THAT VALUABLE & EXTENSIVE

F A R M,

called Mount Salus, alias Millthorpe, lying in Fairfax county, on Difficult and Wolf Trapps, containing by Deed 550 acres & by survey 673 acres. The Mansion House is on a high healthy and agreeable situation, convenient to which are springs of good water.—The house is 40 by 18 feet, two rooms on a floor, with a nine feet passage and stair case, two brick chimnies, with a fire place to each room, a piazza the whole length of the front, a cellar 40 by 18 walled with stone and divided into two apartments. There are several small buildings near the Mansion House and garden. There are also a valuable Merchant and Grift Mill, Saw Mill, Distillery,

Miller's House and Overfer's House.—

The Mill House is 40 by 30, two stories high, half of the lower story of stone, the other part framed work, and covered with thingles. There are one pair of Burr, and one pair of Cologne stones, three boiling cloths almost new, and one screen, all now in use in manufacturing wheat and grinding grift. The till house 40 by 30, one story high, walls of stone and shingled roof, the floors planked, the upper laid for malting grain, and troughs fixed round the whole house constructed to carry water to every vessel which may need it. Three stills and one boiler can be worked to advantage in said house. The waters on Wolf Trap, on which the mill and saw mill stand, are constant streams. The situation for country custom, or purchasing wheat is exceeded by none in the county or neighborhood, not being more than 17 miles from Alexandria, and 13 from George Town, where there are excellent markets for country produce of every description; and about 14 miles from the city of Washington. The land is fertile and productive, and the soil well adapted to receive improvement, from the use of plaster of Paris. There are upwards of 3000 pannels of fence on the land, and about 160 or 170 acres of well timbered land belonging to the tract. There have been nearly 20 acres of timothy made, lying on Wolf Trap and Difficult runs;

50 acres more may be made at a small expense. This farm enjoys many natural advantage which are unnecessary for us to mention, it being taken for granted that any person wishing to buy such property will avail themselves of the opportunity of viewing the premises, previous to the day of sale.

The terms of which are, one third of the money to be paid on the day of sale, (at which time deeds will be made the purchaser) one third in six months, and the other third in twelve months, with the interest accruing on the two last payments from the day of sale. A deed of trust will be expected to secure the last payments.

Some informality in the decree prevented the sale agreeably to the former notice. This defect being obviated by the parties, the property will most certainly be sold as now notified.

Captain James Wiley, residing near the land, will shew the premises, and also a plat of the survey, which is left with him for the information of those concerned.

The title papers will be exhibited on the day of sale.

ROBERT & JOHN GRAY,

GENUINE PATENT JAUNDICE
BITTERS,

A MEDICINE extremely useful when Jaundicy and Bilious Complaints are so prevalent among the citizens of America and the West Indies.— They are a useful and efficacious Medicine for curing Jaundicy and Bilious disorders, and removing that sinking, faint, distressed feeling at the stomach, difficulty of breathing, loss of appetite, and sleep, dull heaviness in the forehead of the day, weakness and trembling of the limbs, dizziness of the head, and yellowness of countenance, complaints so common to jaundicy and bilious people.

Also removing constipation of the bowels, obstructions of urine, cholicky complaints, pukings and purgings, indigestion, sick head ache, rheumatic complaints, &c. (which arise from a collection of sour, bilious matter in the stomach) and at length restoring the constitution to strength and vigor.

They are also found very useful to carry off worms, and cure ricketty children, and may be used with safety in all constitutions, ages and sexes.

The many cures that have been effectu-ed in New England, by the above medicine, (as may be seen in the bills) prevent the necessity of further recommendation.

LIKEWISE,

Wheaton's Patent Itch Ointment.

The only medicine in the world which will certainly cure the ITCH, without having in it any thing either dangerous or disagreeable; it being composed mostly of ingredients never before discovered or used in that disorder. One box cures a person, and there need be no washing after the use of it, as the skin is generally left cleaner and smoother after the use of it than before.

 Alexander to Wm. Wilson, and by him
